Hi Marcia,

Here is a draft two-pager, summarizing our current and future science activities relative to the DWH spill. The material was extracted from your recent Congressional testimony, and from the draft long-term science plan (from Sonya Jones). Vic reviewed and edited an earlier version. There is an embedded question in [brackets] for your consideration.

Given the large amount of work we have done and will do, I kept this at a somewhat general level and attempted to illustrate the breadth of our work.

Let me know of any needed edits or new directions. Once you are happy with it, I will send it on to the workshop folks.

Hi Marcia,

Here is the 'raw text' of our 2-pager for your use in putting together your presentation for DOI. Not surprisingly, we focused on injury assessment work for migratory birds and listed species. We have not include here, but will be assessing and quantifying injury to habitat on National Wildlife Refuges as I'm sure the NPS also will be doing.

Liz Chebib in our External Affairs staff in the SE will be putting this info into a "FWS-standard" 1 page (both sides) information/outreach document for distribution at the meeting. When I get an electronic copy of that document from Liz I will forward to you.

[Liz, I have made a number of changes, but I liked how you formatted the earlier draft]

See you on Thursday, sans puppies ;-)

Regards, Roger

Marcia, I think Sonya's team has an early draft of the DOI long-term science plan now. It needs to be reviewed yet (probably a process of concurrent review by the bureaus and run by DOI) so it isn't good for sharing or citing specifics about it, but I'm wondering if it might be helpful to you, for your information, going into this meeting?

Thanks
