Just got a heads-up that a USGS employee is getting involved in the subsea oil plume tracking initiative. The name of the new group is the Joint Analysis Group. The USGS POC is Mark Sogge. He is the Flagstaff Field Center Chief of Staff.

This is the first I've heard of any USGS involvement in the subsea plume tracking, so I wanted to flag it for your awareness and to request any additional information that may be available about DOI's role in this effort.

Thanks,
Catherine
