Dear FRTG Leaders ,

As you know, there are myriad efforts underway by the Flow Rate Technical Group. Things are evolving rapidly, and there are lots of moving pieces. To help me coordinate all of our work and respond to your needs, Mark Sogge (Chief of Staff, USGS Western Region) is joining the team and will serve as my deputy. Mark will be in touch directly with subteam leaders to introduce himself to you. Please copy Mark on all emails sent to me; he will be taking charge on logistics and should be kept in the loop as decisions are made by each subteam, including contracting decisions in support of our efforts. Mark should also be kept apprised of draft reports/estimates, and all proposed public communications should go through him. Mark will coordinate with Lori Caramanian, who has access to legal advice, so please advise him when legal issues arise so that he can get you answers quickly. Please continue to keep Lori in the loop too -- she'll do her best to keep track of the FRTG's work. As always, thanks to everyone for all the hard work you're doing. Mark's support will be invaluable in this effort, and I'm glad to welcome him to the team. Can you each please share this message with all of the members of your teams to ensure that everyone gets this message? I don't believe that I have complete email distribution lists for any group except the Plume Team.

Thanks much.

Marcia

Attached please find my presentation for the Deepwater Horizon science symposium tomorrow. I am sorry that I am submitting this last minute but I only heard yesterday that I was cleared to attend this meeting. The word had been that I was not supposed to go to it. The organizers wanted me to cover three separate science topics, included in this presentation (all of DOI science, the flow rate technical group, and the results of another science meeting).

Thanks for taking a look.
