Jan -

So bizarre that you never got the email I sent from my MBARI email account. It was about this meeting and about travel plans for this week. It never bounced...

Anyway, Plan A is that I stay for CHOW on Tuesday, fly to Houston Wed am, fly to La Jolla on Thursday night. Then I will get myself from SD r/t to MRY for the weekend, and return SD to Houston on Sunday night.

Plan B if things are going poorly is that I will cancel on CHOW and fly back on Sunday to Houston. Do you think you should reserve a seat on that Sunday 5:15 flight just in case?

Marcia--I happened to see a note about you definitely traveling back to Reston Friday night and that Ian is visiting. That is welcome news. Maybe it's too early to tell, but let me know when (or if) you will be flying back to Houston (next week?). Currently, you have no reservations in place :) Jan

I will check on it, The one concern is that it is in a password -protected private area (the public area is essentially unworkable).

Bill-

I am at this LSU science summit. Seems that quite a few people from the community NOT on the FRTG are interested in access to the videos. Would it be possible to open up (if it isn't already open) the site for the average scientist to get at the videos that you have so laboriously downloaded and divided into workable segments?
