I have talked to Ira about not disclosing the team's numbers until after we have analyzed the new video and I think he is on-board. His main concern seemed to be that that oil spill science had not been properly funded in the past and that if we wanted to continue offshore drilling, we should do so in the future.

However, the press will be targeting our team as the flow estimates seems to be the topic de jour. I wish tomorrow was Friday and the videos (still waiting) were all examined.
