Marcia K McNutt o Joan Padilla, Bill Lehr

Ok. I think that 3 pm eastern (noon west coast) may be too early as we will be talking at that point with a team member in Europe. But 8:30 (5:30) might work. I'll copy to Bill.

I won't be on the call with BP tomorrow as it is at 6 am here and that is when my flight to Seattle takes off.

Can you please let the Secretary know?

Thanks.

Marcia

We were tentatively planning for 6 pm eastern. The people on the call will be myself and Bill Lehr from NOAA, chair of the Plume team of the FRTG. All but one of the Plume team members will be there. The link to their names and bios is on the recent press release. I will send it to you soon as I can get to a real computer.

KLS will be in Louisiana tomorrow, so Marcia, what time are you looking at for call, then let me check with Courtenay and see that these times work. Marcia, let us know what time EASTERN you would like to try? Who will be on the call?

Joan -

Bill offers a few options below. As only he will be phoning in, this really isn't a conference call per se.

Marcia,

The call-in number for the Noon meeting will be 866 459-5232 access code [REDACTED]. We can just re-activate the conference at 3PM PDT.

We have a couple of other options for the Secretary. I assume the call will be short. I cannot check the direct phone line for the conference room until tomorrow but we can also use the corner office speaker phone. We will have nine people which will make it a little crowded but with a good view of the lake. That phone number is [REDACTED]. Or we can send them the conference room phone number tomorrow.

Do we have a call-in number that I can forward on to Joan? I may have it but can't find it. Or do you want the Secretary to just call in on my phone and we can put it on speaker?

All is good. Marcia and her science team meet in Seattle Sunday to review information. The revised flow rate number will be developed. I will call into the meeting. I will then get Marcia and Secretary Chu together to arrive at one official estimate range of flow.
